The weekly edition of the Evening Bulletin gives a complete summary of the news of the day.

SHIRTS AND COLLARS FOR WELL DRESSED MANKIND

The April number of the Haberdasher says concerning collar styles: It is evident that the demand from the better class of retailers which is first shown in special reveals a very marked increase in the sale of both wing and poke collars. These collars have been selling to the best trade during the winter just past, and will undoubtedly figure more prominently in next autumn's trade. The fold collars which have been the principal sellers for the past four years will no doubt continue to enjoy their pre-eminent position, at least until the end of the coming summer. No collar style yet designed has so perfectly met all summer requirements as the fold collar. It is the only collar that looks well on a soft shirt, and it winks less quickly than any other style. In its various widths and its various styles of fronts it meets every demand, and it is safe to predict that it will be the leading style throughout the summer. But we do not think that it will form so large a percentage of the trade during the winter months as it did last winter and the winter before. There are many reasons to support our contention that the standing collars of the wing and poke variety will assert themselves next autumn.

In reference to shirts, the Haberdasher says: Manufacturers have prepared their autumn and winter lines, and all of the prominent brands are now ready for the new season. In these goods one finds a number of departures and some rather surprising developments. In the dress shirts very few changes have been made. The plain bosom white shirt, with the square or slightly rounded cuffs, has been brought out. The stitching is in the wide and the narrow styles, the former being more prominent than ever. So far as cuffs go, the square-cornered link seems to have the call. The pleated bosom white shirts are something of a novelty, and they have been given a place in almost all of the representative lines.

It is the pleated shirt that promises to be the novelty feature in all the stiff bosom shirts both in white and fancies. Percales in neat stripes and spots and small geometrical designs are used extensively. Some of the new shirts have a body of one style of stripe with the bosom of a broader stripe. The madras shirts made with pleated bosoms as well as with plain bosoms are in refined and neat effects. There does not seem to be much of the loud shirtings on the market. In the woven shirtings the plain bosom is given the prominent place.

One of the most surprising features in the shirt market for next autumn and winter is the great prominence that has been given to negligee shirts. Manufacturers have prepared to meet an all-the-year-round demand for soft goods. The autumn negligees are in flannels, oxfords and in madras. They are in plain as well as in pleated bosoms.

The pleated shirt will be well tested during the coming summer, and if it survives the laundry test, there is no doubt that it will sell throughout the next autumn and winter season.

The Psalmist.

Nothing to do but work,
Nothing to eat but food,
Nothing to wear but clothes
To keep one from going nude.

The "PI" Line.

When you start to read a story,
And your energies you bend
In a tense and rapt attention
To the interesting end,
Don't let far you, don't let thrill you
With a rare ecstatic bliss,
When there's sandwiched in the story
A line like this:
Gilbert's knife glittered and described semi-circle in the air, but as his arm downward with swift, unerring aim radiated white light xzifm cmfwyp etaoia it's the "pi" line of the printer.

Nothing to sing but songs.

Ah, well, alas! alack!
Nowhere to go but out
Nowhere to come but back.

Nothing to see but sights.

Nothing to quench but thirst,
Nothing to have but what we've got;
Thus thro' life we are cursed.

Nothing to strike but a gait;

Everything moves that goes.
Nothing at all but common sense
Can ever withstand these woes.
—From "Ben King's Verse."

MOVE BALKY MULE

Oakland.—Concord, Contra Costa county, has a new chronological date from which to reckon events. It is the day the mule balked in the center of the street. On the same day the residents discovered a new way to induce a balky mule to move and, while it was, in a manner, successful, they have grave doubts about its coming into general use. This particular mule, attached to a cart, balked in the center of the principal business street of the town, and for a while the exciting incident, was hailed with delight as a relief from the tedium, but when it interfered with business and became an obstruction to traffic, various methods, from persuading the brute with a club to throwing dirt in his mouth, were resorted to, but without success. After a time some one suggested tying a bunch of firecrackers to the mule's tail. Another man, with sufficient courage, or ignorance of mules, was found to do the tying. The mule quietly submitted, only looking around to see what was doing. A match was applied and the next moment "something was doing."

With a snort, the mule went into the air, kicked four times before he struck the ground with a remnant of the cart, lit almost on the members of the crowd, who fell over one another and clawed and scratched a way to safety on the sidewalk. By the time they had gained it only a little cloud of dust, in the center of which were popping sparks and flying heels, marked the former location of the mule. With it was gone another team or two, but the latter were caught before doing serious damage.

Last Night's Alarm.

The transformers on the telephone post at the corner of Kinau and Alapai streets was the cause of the fire alarm, which was rung in about 7:30 last night. The cause of the fire is unknown. It is supposed that perhaps a regulation current was sent through the wire, which was too much of a strain on the wire after having been accustomed for the past few months for only a half force current. At all events it proved too much for the wires and a little blaze was started. Some one rung in an alarm, but the fire burned out before the arrival of the department.

SHIRT WAIST JUDGES

Indianapolis, Ind.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Indianapolis Bar Association a resolution was introduced and adopted after some discussion asking the Judges of the Superior and Circuit Courts to wear shirt waists after May 1.

The reason assigned for this action is that the trial of cases during the heated term is attended with great inconvenience because of the heat, and that if the Judges would consent to wear shirt waists, the attorneys would generally conform to the custom, and there would be no necessity for lawyers pulling off their coats and collars, as is so frequently the case when trying cases in the hot months. Judge Allen said that it was probable the Judges would conform to the resolution, and if so an effort would be made to have all Judges wear the same colors when on the bench.

The use of the Singer in millions of homes shows the unprecedented success of these ideal sewing machines. It is convincing proof that the Singer excels in all kinds of family sewing and art needle work. All our sewing machines are of the best construction, beautifully decorated, and are mounted on selected woods in finely finished cabinets of artistic design. B. Bavaria has resumed relations with Greece for the first time since the Athenians drove out the late King Otto. As one result Prof. Furtwangler, director of the Munich Glyptothek, will go to Aegina next summer to excavate the site where the Aeginetan statues of the Munich museum were found, in the hope of discovering evidence that may decide what is the relative position of the groups to each other.
